Storyboard

↪ Storyboard: Turning Script into Visual Sequence

Description:

This storyboard visually translates the script into a six-frame sequence, outlining the key moments of the story. Each box illustrates what the viewer will see—ranging from character actions to transitions and on-screen text. Simple sketches and directional arrows guide the viewer through camera movement, while notes highlight planned text overlays, icons, and visual effects. The storyboard serves as a blueprint for the final video, ensuring clarity, flow, and alignment between visuals and narrative tone.

From script to screen — this storyboard maps out each key moment, showing how visuals, motion, and story flow together to create an engaging and cohesive piece.
